Motorsport is dangerous

From the moment you access the premises of the Hungaroring, always remember that motorsport is dangerous and that you access the Hungaroring at your own risk.

Although there are qualified racers on track, the risk of accidents is always present. Even if officials grant you access to specific zones, it's always your own responsibility to see if a zone is safe or not.

If you have entry to the pit lane or starting grid, always be aware of your surroundings because of moving cars and remember that you access these locations at your own risk.
