GENERAL INFORMATION

Heading North for this 11th Stage.
A day across plateaus with little variation in terrain., but not necessarily an easy one. The selective section is among the fastest of the 2026 edition. A very high average speed that must be managed carefully to avoid navigation traps on this very open terrain. Dust is significant in certain areas. Strong winds in recent days have swept across the tracks. All these elements are likely to increase the difficulty. Please note the presence of the last “Pitstop” for FIA competitors, allowing them to keep hope alive at mid-stage after a few rocky sectors over the first 150 kilometers.
Caution: many nomadic camps have settled in the region in recent days.

GENERAL INFORMATION

- KM DSS – 35: Very fast tracks; numerous track options make navigation tricky. Vegetation present and heavy dust in this first section.
- KM 35 – 43: Rockier and more winding tracks, slowing the pace.
- KM 43 – 105: Very fast tracks again, with a few wadi crossings; vegetation is denser — watch out for CAP headings.
- KM 105 – 150: Narrow track alternating between sand and rocks, then descending onto a fast plateau with significant fesh-fesh; very winding, slower section with many tracks — watch CAP headings.

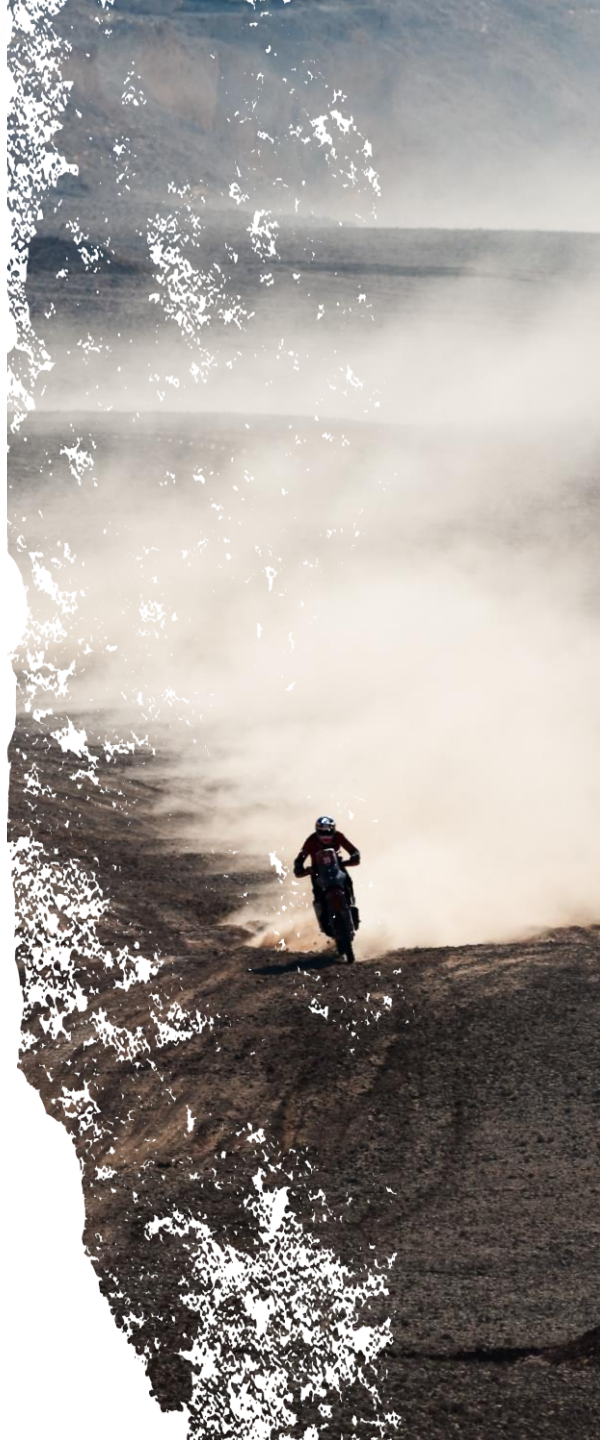

GENERAL INFORMATION

- KM 150 – 190: The track becomes rockier in places, then improves toward the end of the section with more sand up to the liaison (transfer).
- KM 190 – 206: Sandy and fast track across a plateau up to the Neutralisation; navigation is not straightforward.
- KM 206 – 282: The track remains very fast with a section across a chott. Heading (CAP) tracking is essential. A few undulations. Heavy dust
- KM 282 – ASS: Fast-paced tracks continue all the way to the finish, with a few rocky sections.

VIGILANCE POINTS

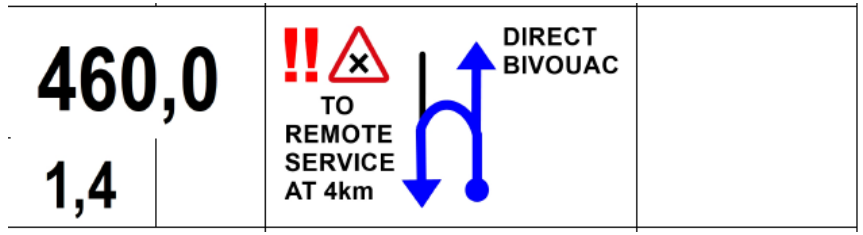

- KM 85.47: 30 cm concrete marker along the track. DZ 30 km/h. Heavy dust in the area.
- KM 180.68: Do not take the main track — track is cut off. Mandatory right.
- KM 265.24: WPS – Track crossing between small embankments.
