The starting order for Qualifying Practice is as shown on the above grids.

The order is determined by the reverse championship order from 2022, the drivers who were not in the 2022 championship will start first, the one with the highest starting number first, then the next highest start number, etc.

Qualifying Practice is run over four timed laps.

Because the way in which tracks are set up varies, the number of laps necessary to achieve four timed laps will vary.

Qualifying Practice will be run as follows during 2023:

NOR five laps

SWE five laps

GBR four laps

BEL five laps

DEU four laps

In each case there will only be four timed laps and each driver's fastest single lap will be used to determine the H1 starting order.

These results are provisional until the conclusion of any judicial and technical inquiries.
