14.14. Special regulations for rally in Norway

The Norwegian authorities have decided several special regulations for rallying in Norway.

14.14.1. Road sections

Special stages cannot be included in the time for road sections. Therefore, the following road section will start according to the time used on the special stage.

The start time for road section will be given at the time control at the finish on the special stages.

When the time check is at the end of a special stage and is followed by the start check for the road section, the following applies:

These two controls are considered a control zone, and the signage is as follows:

- yellow warning sign ("flying finish"), (K zone begins)
- red sign with finishing flag ("flying finish") after 150m.
- red sign with "stop" (time control) after 100-300m. This will also be the starting line for the following road section.
- At the K-zone there is an end sign (beige with 3 diagonal lines) the zone ends 50 meters thereafter.

At the time control, the clerk registers both the used time at the special stage and the start time for the new road section.

14.14.2. Special stages – max time.

As the special stage is not included in the time for the road section, a maximum driving time will be specified for each special stage.

If a participant exceeds this, it will automatically result in exclusion.

15. Prizes, score calculation and award ceremony

15.1. Location and time

The award ceremony will take place in Pressverkhallen.

The ceremony will take place as soon as the results are official, but at the earliest at: 19:30

15.2. Awards

In all classes where at least 3 participants finish, prizes are awarded for 1st, 2nd and 3rd place.

Participation prizes for all debutants who complete the race.

If two or more participants in the same class achieve the same total time, the one with the best time on SS1 will prevail. If this does not make a difference, the best time SS2, SS3 etc. will be decisive for placement. No one can claim a prize without having completed the race.

Unclaimed prizes will not be forwarded and will accrue to the organizer.
