Very important

The battery optimization of your phone MUST be deactivated.

The Tracky app can work in background but might be stopped if your phone is running out of memory or battery.

During its active use, keep the app open as you might get notifications from race control and warnings about overspeedings. You can also access useful information on the map

To avoid any problem the phone should be on the dashboard with a good view of the sky and kept connected to an external power supply (or powerbank), all the time.

Sporttraxx has developed the tracking Tracky app with the best intentions, obtaining the FIA approvals. We are not liable for individual phone performance, quality or battery life.

The competitors are responsible for having a device compatible with the app, and a data connection to the available GSM network. An estimated 50MB of data is required for a 1-day event.
